

From the Secondary Principal

The theme for professional development this year is called "Assess and Adjust." Assess and adjust is related to how teachers administer diagnostic, formative, or summative assessments and then use that data to modify instruction and plan future learning. The analysis of assessment data allows teachers to identify areas of mastery and areas of growth so they can make decisions about content or skills that need more practice or if the cohort of students can move onward to the next unit of study.

A popular format for assessment creation was developed by education experts Jay McTighe and Grant Wiggins in the work Understanding by Design, and it uses the acronym of GRASPS when creating assessments.

- G - Real-world Goal
- R - Real-world Role
- A - Real-world Audience
- S - Real-world Situation
- P - Real-world Product (or Performance)
- S - Standards

During first semester late-starts, teachers have collaborated to create new summative assessments for the third or fourth quarter that included as many of the GRASPS characteristics as possible leading to learning experiences that went deeper and moved far beyond traditional tests. Students are not only learning content and skills, they are applying all they have learned to unfamiliar situations, demonstrating mastery!

I have been impressed to see our young scientists compete with CBCS in a chemical-reaction driven locomotive competition. It was exciting to see middle school students produce a theater set design inspired by the content from The Phantom Tollbooth. One AP class even curated a museum dedicated to the interrelatedness of culture, technology, language, and religion during the 18th & 19th Centuries. I continue to remain proud of how our teachers continue to learn and grow professionally and how our students explore new learning opportunities with courage and an open mind!

We are going to celebrate our theme "Cooking Up A Tasty Story" by reading books and eating pancakes together. On that note, we would like to invite all of our elementary parents to come eat and read together on Thursday February 28, starting at 08:00 in the MPR!

Feel free to bring books with your native language to read together with your kids!

for High Schoolers

When talking with BAIS graduate Tivara Tanudjaja after her first semester of university, one thing she said that was really helpful in deciding where to apply for school was the summer programs she did before her senior year. It helped her know which schools she want to apply to and even helped her eliminate schools from her list.

Throughout the school year, we receive information about summer programs at universities around the world. We have combined it into one document for quick access and would like to pass that information along for you and your student to look into. Please be aware that some due dates are coming up quickly.

Team captain and graduating senior Kirstie said, “The Friday game helped each one of us find confidence in basketball. Because we were confident, we were able to perform a lot better in this game. Everyone playing on the court knew what to do and did their best till the very end. I hope we could bring that confidence into IISSAC and end this season well.”

Mr. Thomas: “Our last regular season game of the 18-19 school year was excellent and a lot of fun. It was great having a chance to honor the 12th grade student-athletes, Paul and Daniel, with a lot of playing time and opportunities. Everyone played and a lot of players scored. We're excited about IISSAC and appreciative of so many parents coming to Salatiga to watch! Don't forget about the livestream available on Facebook.”

Senior and captain Paul said, "Last Friday's game was a great last home game to end on. Our team played well together, we had fun, and I scored a three-pointer! Freshman Jake said, “The game on Friday was more of a game for seniors (for Daniel and Paul) since it was their last regular season game. Sadly, I got injured that game, but thank God it wasn't a serious one. All of our subs got to play on the court and scored some. I am excited for the IISSAC tournament, and I want to make Paul and Daniel as happy as possible. I am looking forward to bringing the trophy this weekend...”
